$200,000 SPENT IN FIGHT AGAINST POLLUTION

Altona Petrochemical Company has spent $200,000 on plant modifications in the past 12 months in its efforts to lessen pollution.

During this period the company has been continually under fire from Altona council and local residents.

They have had several 28-day extensions in order to complete the works and the position is to be considered again when the council meets for the first time on February 9.

Recently Altona's chief health inspector Mr. John Mellors, together with councillor Les Crofts made an inspection of the plant, accompanied by personnel officer Mr. Winston Waugh.

Some of the major modifications completed are the installation of a new smokeless flare, the roofing in of the oil separator, installation of oil collection systems in the process area to lessen oil carried to the separator area, construction of effluent hold-up ponds and the cooling of the plant effluent.

The company employed several environmental control experts in the preparation of their pollution improvement programme.

Mother stole with daughter's help

A 42-year-old Italian woman, charged with stealing a cardigan from Forges Pty. Ltd., put it in her daughter's basket to take it from the store, Footscray Court was told last Thursday.

Phyllis Goldstone, store detective, of Bertram Street, Altona, told the court the woman put the cardigan, valued at $3.75, in a paper bag immediately she left the store.

Giovanna Baffi, of 64 Raleigh Street, Footscray, pleaded not guilty to the charge before Mr. J. Miller, SM.

Goldstone told the court she apprehended the woman and her daughter outside the store and asked a girl employee to act as an interpreter.

She said when she asked them why they hadn't paid for the cardigan the mother and daughter appeared to be arguing; the mother that they had paid and the daughter that they hadn't.

Detective First Constable Glenn Hyde (Footscray) said Baffi told him through an interpreter that she had paid for the cardigan and that the receipt had been lost.

She had put the cardigan into the bag because she didn't want her husband to find out she had bought it for her grandson.

Detective Hyde said she told him she had offered to pay for the cardigan when the store detective stopped her because she was afraid.

Baffi told the court she had bought some wool at the store and then went to buy the cardigan, giving the girl $5.

She said she took the wrapping off the cardigan because her husband had given her $10 to buy a rocking horse for her grandson and she didn't want him to know she had bought another gift.

Baffi said her daughter had told Detective Hyde she wanted to pay for the cardigan, and not her.

Agatha Gourisi, of the same address, said her mother had bought a rocking horse for her son and then had also picked out a cardigan for him, which she paid for.

Mr. Miller fined Baffi $10 in default two days' gaol and ordered her to pay $19.60 costs.

Other area hit was the Footscray Council Quarries site in McArthur's Road.

However no property damage was reported. The spokesman said damage to equipment was reasonably extensive.

The storm hit suddenly at 3 p.m. after the temperature had reached 86 deg. in still, humid conditions.

Train services all over Melbourne were delayed. The storm damaged overhead transmission cables on the Tottenham-St. Albans line, halting all trains.

While Altona was among the hardest hit in the western suburbs, neighboring Williamstown escaped fairly lightly.

Only 121 points of rain were recorded, compared with almost two inches only a few miles away in Altona.

About 1000 homes in the Williamstown area were blacked out for 20 minutes, when lightning struck one of the main electricity supply feeders.

No property damage caused by the storm was reported to the local council.

"Flinders Street Station, number 7 platform", with people going home to the western suburbs.

Altona artist, Michael Kubrak, 25, likes painting people.

"I prefer to capture them in their natural state, not while they're posing," he said.

Mr. Kubrak, who lives in Maxwell Avenue, North Altona, does figurative painting and so far has exhibited his work at three successful one-man shows.

His models are everywhere — drinking in a pub, walking down the street, waiting for a train.

"Schoolboy"

A mural, titled Flinders Street Station, number 7 platform, 5.15 p.m. depicts a crowd of people on their way home to the western suburbs.

The style is vaguely reminiscent of Kokoshka, without the latter's disregard for details. But Mr. Kubrak has an individual style of his own.

"The only thing that kept me going was my stubbornness. Nobody encouraged me," he said.

That stubbornness is starting to pay off. Quite a number of people here commissioned him to do their portraits and his work can be seen in many interstate and country private collections.

Mr. Kubrak works as a semi-trailer driving instructor but paints every second of his spare time are painted a ghastly light blue, they clash with the sky and I lost interest," he said.

Never short of subjects, he was even inspired by the oil refinery works of Altona.

"Their former rusty-looking brown really suited them."

He has often been asked to judge "kids' shows" by various organisations.

"When children start drawing for the first time, they are at their most original, he said.

"Everything they do is so frank that one can see exactly what they are trying to say."

Mr. Kubrak feels it's a shame that Australian artists have to go overseas before they make a name for themselves.

"We are too conscious of outside opinion. There are plenty of subjects here; the only reason an artist needs to travel is to get a reputation."

But he is determined to make good without having to leave the country.

Michael had shown promise at an early age and came third in the National Gallery travelling scholarship.

He works mainly in oils and pastels and thinks some incompleteness gives a hint of mystery to a picture.

"I never feel compelled to 'finish' a painting. It is complete when I could not add anything else," he said.

When asked how he feels about selling his work, he showed me snapshots of those he has sold and said that they were for the benefit of people who haven't seen them.

"A true artist never sells his work. He only loans them for money," he said.

Presbyterian leader slams milk bar beer

The Presbyterian Moderator of the presbytery of Melbourne, the Rev. W. Drooger, this week sent a letter to each of his parishes attacking the sale of low alcohol content soft drinks.

He accused those responsible for putting alcohol into milk bars of being irresponsible and contributing to the drug addiction of minors.

He asked his parishioners to contact their members of Parliament and to urge them to legislate for the immediate prohibition of the drink.

The presbytery of Melbourne includes all Presbyterian churches in Altona, Spotswood, Newport, Williamstown, Yarraville, Kensington and many others suburbs.

Concern

The letter reads: "It causes me great concern that low alcohol content beverages have become available for sale in milk bars.

"The milk bar is the meeting place mainly for children and young teenagers.

"The acquaintance with alcohol, even though it be less than two per cent, in this environment is a danger which is not to be underestimated.

"It enhances the idea that alcohol consumption is a token of adulthood and because of its low alcohol content, may create the false impression that it is harmless anyway.

'Children's judgment is being distorted'

"Children's judgment being distorted in this way in their formative years may well lead to addiction when they are legitimately able to obtain the stronger version.

"The responsibility to do what we can to prevent this rests with us now.

"We are too well aware of the disastrous effect which alcohol has on the lives and well-being of many people and through this on the life of our own community.

"To bring this drug, unrestricted, within the reach of young children is, in my opinion, irresponsible to say the least.

"I see this as an issue to which we must most strongly object in obedience to the command of Christ: "Love thy neighbor".

'Dangerous'

"I urge you therefore, as ministers and elders of the church, to bring this before your congregations, encouraging them to contact their members of parliament with a view to the enactment of legislation for the prohibition of the selling of alcohol in milk bars.

"The power of public opinion has been proven on many occasions, so in the name of Christ let us try to use it in this dangerous situation."

Two companies have marketed low alcohol content drinks in Melbourne during the past fortnight.

They are Hall's which makes Hall's West End Shandy and Coopers, maker of Cooper's Crown Shandy.

In accordance with the law both of those drinks have less than a two per cent. alcohol content.

A study this week revealed that few local traders had been approached to sell Shandy.

However Dickin's, in Nicholson Street, Footscray, is already selling Hall's.

The manager, Mr. Tucker, said the company had sold six dozen in the past three weeks and the product was proving successful.

Cooper's distributors said they would make deliveries in the Footscray area this week.

The Altona Factory of Dow Chemical (Australia) Limited recently completed a disabling injury free period of one and a half million manhours.

The company has recognised the achievement by making a donation of $200 to the Elderly Citizens Club of Altona.

The presentation was made during a luncheon provided by the company for all Altona employees.

The cheque was received by the deputy mayor, Cr.

P. Lynch, on behalf of the elderly citizens club.

The club was represented by Mrs. Edwards, president, and Mrs. Lowman, treasurer. Cr. Lynch thanked the company for their donation and said it would be of valuable assistance to the club. He congratulated all employees on their fine record.

Witness, police can't agree

A young Altona man had a traffic offence charge against him dismissed in Williamstown Court last Thursday because a witness in the case did not agree with police about the date the offence occurred.

Daryl Hiddle, of 126 Grieve Highway, Altona, was charged with overtaking a vehicle on the wrong side.

Police alleged that the offence took place at 11.35 p.m. on Friday, March 13, last year.

Pensioner Jessie Herbert Headlam, of 2 The Strand, Williamstown, alleged the offence took place on December 13, 1969.

Mr. F. Clancy SM dismissed the charge because there was no evidence against the accused.

Val's Column

Hello Girls,

By now Girls, I think we all realise how drying the summer elements are to our exposed skins.

There is no excuse for uncomfortable dryness when Dorothy Gray "Satura" is available. "Satura" products are formulated with protective sunfilter properties which absorb ultra violet rays while adding moisturisers to your skin. These ingredients are so necessary under the Australian sun.

There is no excuse for us to complain of dry skin or lips if we choose correctly. Look to Dorothy Gray and their "Satura" range.

Being specialised right now — Double size "Satura" moisturising night cream (with vitamin A). A night cream is a must Girls, most of us will need these all year round, but especially now. Your skin needs moisture and additional protective ingredients to soften, smooth and guard against to-morrows dryness.

For daytime protection "Satura" offers you a double size sunlifter lotion Moisturiser, or small sizes either with lipstick — Satura of course — or in Roll On Lotion form, a dual pack, with a tube of cream moisturiser for those who prefer a cream. "Satura" day cream is ideal for protection against sun, wind and weather. A sunscreening agent absorbs ultra violet rays. Humectants and emollients with vitamin A soften, smooth and moisturise. Soothes sunburnt and wind chapped skin. Both "Satura" Roll On Lotion and cream are perfect to wear under makeup, or as a makeup base.

A history of land development in Altona

Before we detail any other estate companies let us see how Altona's position stood. Populationwise Altona had grown. In 1900 there were less than 50 people and 10 houses. In 1921 this had grown to 515 people and 114 houses, while in 1933 there were 1722 people and 408 houses.

It had become of age as a community with many organisations and sporting groups. After threatening to join Williamstown or Footscray, Altonians received representation on Werribee council in 1928.

During this period 1911-1933 trains, water, electricity, better access roads (Millers Road was extended over Kororoit Creek in 1930) made Altona a better place to live in.

Regarding land values of the period. These as taken from newspaper and other publications, are as follows:—

In 1927 land was selling from $5 to $18 per foot. A brochure of 1929 quoted from the former minimum figure to $20 per foot, another paper quoted as low as $4 per foot.

According to a land map plan of Altona of a local estate issued in the late 1920s a block on the corner of Queen and McBain Streets brought $760, whilst one opposite sold for $500; on the north side of the railway two blocks in Pier Street were shown to bring $350 each. Of course wages and living standards were much lower than at present.

The writer was told that during the depression blocks were almost given away—one instance: you could become the owner of blocks if you only paid the outstanding rates, amounting to a few pounds. Of course, very few people had money to do this.

We now will look else-

where in Altona. Whilst Altona proper was being sub-divided in 1888 a small estate called Newport was offered for sale at the rooms of the auctioneers, Munro and Baillieu on Tuesday, October 23, 1888 (they apparently weren't game to do it on the site, besides it was over a mile from the nearest station).

The area in question still (or part thereof) exists today. It is the area bounded by Abbeygate, Prentice and Hobson streets, Park Street (now part of SEC depot and Benheim Road). The results of this sale are not known, but it is only since World War II that this area has fully developed.

ALTONA NORTH AND EAST DEVELOPMENT

The next estate we hear of is the West Newport Estate. This area was, according to local papers, part of the Ross property, but the writer is not sure whether this estate still exists today or has disappeared in the SEC grounds. This he does know, the land faced the Geelong line and a station named Hatherly was built near the homestead of the same name and opened on February 1, 1891.

The sale of 50 building allotments was advertised to take place on February 21, 1891, with the usual trapping of lunch in marquee and special trains. A subsequent report stated that the sale was successful.

No more estate development occurred until 1924, when T. M. Burke Pty. Ltd. put a number of estates on the market north of Blackshaws Road.

Details are: Geelong Road, 1924-35, £65-120, Millers, Kyle and Blackshaws roads; Cherry's, 1925-35, £45-185, Freemans, B'shaws and Cedula roads; electric power, 1927-35, £45-85, Millers, B'shaws and Cedula roads; Millers Road, 1927, £50-55, Cedula, B'shaws, Millers roads.

However, these estates went the way of most of the time and it was left to other firms after World

Written by ALLAN J. CLARK, Hon. Secretary of the Altona Historical Society.

War II to develop the estates.

The block, which is bounded by Hansen and Mason streets, Mills Street and Blackshaws Road, was laid out soon after 1927, but by whom has yet to be determined.

The two large blocks bounded by Ross, Millers and Blackshaws roads and Mills Street, were developed in 1928, by the firm of Fowler and Mills who, to try and boost their estate, built Paisley station in the same year.

This name seems to have been applied because of the supposed proximity of the Williamstown rifle range and the association of Paisley in the United Kingdom with shooting.

As the writer himself can remember the wide open spaces north of Paisley and a handful of houses near the station, he can assume that they didn't do too well with their sales and apart from a two-up school that practised on the grounds, it was left to Willmore and Randell to develop most of the area in the mid-1950s.

Just before we close this section on land development mention should be made of three land firms that attempted to develop the Seaholme area, all began by the same person in 1927.

Details are:— Altona Beach Estates Co., 1/12/27; Altona Seaside Development Co., 7/12/27;

Altona Seaside Subdivision Co., on 12/9/24.

As there is no further reference to these companies in the Registrar's Office it follows that the organisations mentioned never got off the ground due to the scarcity of finance at the time.

Tramway Schemes.— Of passing interest is the tramways (electric) proposed by some of the estate firms but, due to some reason or another never came to fruition.

One, proposed by the Altona Beach Estates, was to come from Melbourne via the ferry down to Williamstown then out Kororoit Creek Road to Altona. The society hopes to find out more about this scheme.

The other of note was in connection with the T. M. Burke Estates in Brooklyn. The proposed tram was to run down

Mason Street to Mills Street, north along this road to Geelong Road then along that road to Somerville Road connecting on to the existing tram terminus at Williamstown Road.

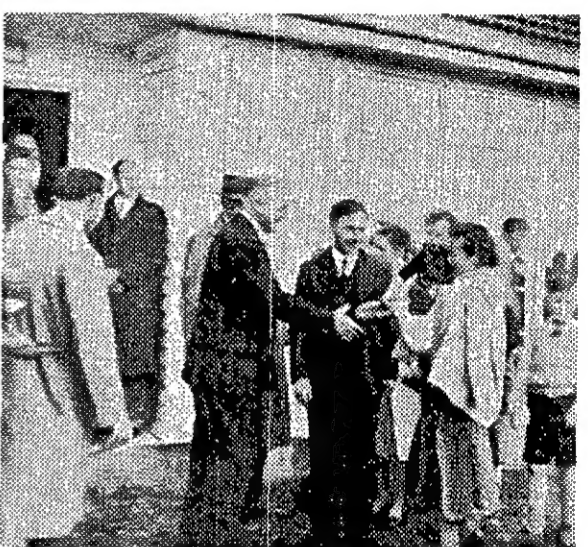

Post-War Estate Development.

We now only have to deal with the housing estates that have appeared since World War II.

As mentioned previously the old estates were developed as the influx of persons started to flow into the Altona area.

L. Nordenne commenced some of his early housing work in "The Aviary", previously mentioned. It is of interest to note that it is only in the past couple of years that this area of land has almost been fully built on.

Youths on 'leave' guilty of assault

Two youths on "leave" from Malmesbury Youth Training Centre were found guilty of assault charges when they faced Mr. J. Miller SM at Footscray Court last Thursday.

Both youths had a long list of prior convictions, dating back to the Children's Court.

Both were fined $30 on each of three charges in default six days gaol, and both were ordered to pay $8.25 costs.

John William Palmer, 17, of 359 Dorcas Street, South Melbourne, and Gary William Guy, 18, of 162 Graham Street, Broadmeadows each pleaded guilty to assaulting Paul William Robertson and Graeme Johnson.

Palmer also pleaded guilty to assaulting Constable Ross Smith (Footscray) and Guy guilty to resisting Constable Bernard Farrelly.

Robertson, 19, junior PMG assistant, of 32

Wren Street, Altona, told the court he was in a car being driven along Paisley Street, at 11.15 p.m. on December 25, 1970.

He said he chased Palmer and Guy and asked them to return a girl's purse.

Robertson said three youths then jumped him and attacked Johnson. He said he suffered nose and jaw injuries.

Johnson, of 30 Wren Street, Altona, told the court that when he and Robertson stopped the youths, words were said which led to a fight.

He said Guy attacked him while Palmer and another youth fought in the middle of Nicholson Street. Johnson said he suffered a swollen lip and a bloody nose as a result of the fight.

William Gallagher, apprentice butcher, of 4 Derby Court, Altona, told the court he saw Palmer and Guy punching and kicking Robertson and Johnson.

Constable Ross Smith told the court Palmer struck him several blows around the chest region and threw his arms about when he tried to arrest him.

Constable Bernard Farrelly told the court he chased Guy and told him he wanted to speak to him about the assaults.

He said Guy said "not me mate," and tried to break away.

'Conscripts' live here

One of the harshest descriptions of the western suburbs is included in an article by Peter Samuel in the January 23 edition of the Bulletin.

The article is about Westernport Bay.

The section concerning the western suburbs reads:

"The north and west is generally harsh, sparsely treed, basalt country, often flat and extreme in climate with little rain and too much wind."

"You have to travel only 20 or 30 miles west of Melbourne to get a real taste of the harsh, inhospitable Australian inland."

"So only people conscripted by the Victorian Housing Commission go that way to live."

"Most prefer the bush and hills to the east and north-east and the sandy, slightly undulating areas to the south and south-east, the temperate areas bounded by many miles of good beach."

Four fined

Four Altona residents were fined in Williamstown Court last Thursday on charges of failing to pay fees and stamp tax to the Motor Registration Branch.

Bruce Dettman, of 22 Bracken Street, Altona, was fined $20 for failing to pay a transfer fee on a car bought in February last year.

Dettman told police he had been too poor to pay the fee until October.

Joan Draper, of 32 Bracken Street, was fined $20 for not paying $6 stamp duty on a car purchase.

Peter McInerney, of 32 Rose Street, Altona, was fined a total of $40 for not paying fees due in May until October.

Robert Vasallo of 16 Upton Street, was fined $40 on similar charges.

JAVELIN STAR MISSED SQUAD

Victoria's best sub-junior javelin thrower, Manfred Rohkamper, was overlooked in the selection of the team which competed at the sub-junior east coast meeting at Brisbane on January 16 and 17, according to the Altona North High sportsmaster.

The sportsmaster said the winning throw at the carnival was 174 ft. 4 in., yet on the same day in Melbourne Rohkamper threw 182 ft.

He said the selection committee concentrated on inter-club meetings and the all schools results, but surely a closer examination of the public schools, associated Catholic colleges and all-high schools results could have been made.

"Manfred's omission for this team can only dampen his enthusiasm towards javelin throwing, a situation that Victorian athletics officials can ill-afford to repeat if we are to obtain our prospective champions," he said.

"At the all high schools athletic carnival he won the under-17 javelin with a throw of 178 ft. 6 in. — two feet short of the Victorian-sub-junior record," he said.

"In the all-schools he entered the under-19 event which he won with a throw of 173.10 in."

"With the St. Bernard's B grade team in inter club competition at Olympic Park he registered 181 ft. 11 in. with his first throw in senior competition, and more recently threw 184 ft. 3 in."

The sportsmaster said these were the two best throws recorded by a 16-year-old boy in Australia in 1970.

He said the selection committee concentrated on inter-club meetings and the all schools results, but surely a closer examination of the public schools, associated Catholic colleges and all-high schools results could have been made.

"Manfred's omission for this team can only dampen his enthusiasm towards javelin throwing, a situation that Victorian athletics officials can ill-afford to repeat if we are to obtain our prospective champions," he said.

Two scoop the pool

Westonia club members, Glenda Wishart, competing in the girls under 13 section and Stephen Smith for the boys under 9, won all events listed for their age category at Altona Little Athletic Centre on Saturday.

Unfortunately a strong wind prevailed for most of the competition and this contributed for the lack of excellent times.

Glenda Wishart leapt 1.17 metres to win the girls' high jump, hurled the discus 18.36 metres to run out an easy winner in the discus event and convincingly led the field home in the 400 metres in the smart time of 1 min. 20.8 secs.

Glenda has persisted with her training which was unfortunately interrupted by sickness, throughout the year and is now beginning to apply stern pressure to the opposition.

Stephen Smith again secured a treble for his club, jumping 3.56 metres in the long jump, dashing over the 100 metres in the very good time of 16 seconds and easily defeated the opposition in the 400 metres, which he won in the excellent time of 1 min. 14.9 secs.

Other good performances which came under notice on Saturday were those of:

T. Kincoff (Westonia) girls under 9 high jump, 98 cms; J. Robertson (St. Mary's) girls under 10 triple jump, 6.62 metres; K. Cheswright (Altona North) girls under 12 triple jump, 8.40 metres; A. Evans (Altona North) girls under 9 60 metres hurdles, 12.0 secs.; L. Cave (Altona North) girls under 10 - 100 metres, 16.04 secs.; B. Howden (Seaholme) boys under 12 high jump, 1.24 metres; B. Thompson (Altona North) boys under 12 - 800 metres walk, 4 min. 24.6 secs.; N. Condon (Seaholme) boys under 10 - 100 metres, 15.8 secs.; G. Sullivan (St. Mary's) boys under 12 - 400 metres, 1 min. 12.4 secs.; B. Dodd (Westonia) 60 metres hurdles, 10.3 secs.; W. Clement (Altona North) boys under 11, 800 metre walk, 4 min. 39 secs.

All club managers and competitors are reminded that there have already been provisional selections made for the Victorian Zone Championships which are to be conducted at the Royal Park west ground on Labor Day, March 8 and serious training should now be undertaken in those events for which individual competitors have been provisionally selected.

The results, as applicable to competitors from the Altona Centre, in respect to the invitation meeting conducted at Corio Oval on Sunday, January 24 will be published next week.

Last week's results:

Altona Hockey Club will commence training on Saturday, February 6, at Grant Reserve.

All senior players are requested to be at the club rooms by 2 p.m. sharp.

New players who want to play with the club this year are invited to attend.

Players who cannot attend training, but wish to play hockey this season, are requested to notify the Secretary, Des Smith, 19 Millers Road, Altona, or ring him at work on 314 0222, ext. 73, as soon as possible.

Nominations for the Victoria Senior and Colts teams close in early March.

JILL GITTINS CUTS 400 m TIME IN LITTLE ATHS.

With a fantastic run in the 400 metre race, Jill Gittins (NS) took 1.4 sec. off her previous record at Williamstown Little Athletic Centre's meeting last week.

She had to run into a strong wind for the first 100 metres, then into a wind again for the final 100 metres.

During the day's events other good performances were recorded although there were no more records broken because the track ran into the wind.

The Victorian Track and Field Championships commence with regional heats at Royal Park on March 8 and children wishing to enter should contact their team managers and have their names nominated, as entries close on Saturday, February 6 and late entries will not be considered.

As both Victorian and Centre Championships are getting closer the centre is starting Sunday training for all clubs at Newport Oval starting on February 7.

Anyone who could help with coaching either track or field events will be welcome at the ground at 10 a.m. on Sunday, February 7.

Further information is available on 391 2360.

Rain washes out Newport's match

Newport's skipper Bob Coluin sent Gellibrand in to bat under threatening skies on the S. T. Grey Reserve last Sunday.

The opposition were progressing steadily until a downpour sent all and sundry scurrying for shelter.

Upon resumption the ball was tossed to 12-year-old Billy Fowler who in the space of only two overs wrought havoc amongst the batsmen to capture three for five.

Dick Roberts took over from the other end and showed there was still some life left in the "old dog" as his wily off spinners netted him the grand figures of three for one.

With Arch Lloyd capturing one for five the situation looked excellent for Newport until the Heavens opened up and play was abandoned for the day with Gellibrand a very shaky seven for 28.

Full marks go to coach Kev McKusker, who showed his aquatic prowess to the fullest with the greatest forward one and half somersault ever seen in Kororoit Creek Road.

NEWPORT LADIES

The first Newport Ladies bowling club pennant matches after the Christmas break resulted in a loss for B1 and C2 and a win for B3.

This puts them on top of the ladder.
